

CAPABEL PRESS
Publishing knowledge people need

News Release

4 August 2009

New book unlocks the real secret of the Gospels

The unexpected truth behind the 'Da Vinci Code'

Capabel Press is to launch its new title 'Why Call Me God?' on 1st September 2009.

'Why Call Me God?' was written by JH Hatfield to address an important question: Is the decline in active Christian worship in Britain over the last 50 years somehow linked to the way the gospels themselves have been understood and taught? In fact, have we understood them correctly at all?

Years of Hatfield's painstaking research on the primary Greek texts of the gospels – created long before the Latin translations of the 4th century – have established that the original Gnostic authors buried their true message using a series of riddles and hidden clues. This original message, never recognised by the Catholic church, has been lost to us for thousands of years.

Hatfield has used meticulous detective work and scholarship finally to expose the 'secret' part of the gospel's message. In 'Why Call Me God?' he supplies the answers to many of the riddles and explains their purpose.

The results of Hatfield's pioneering scholarship are truly explosive. Its conclusions are likely to send shockwaves throughout the Christian church.

The Managing Director of Capabel Press, said:

“Almost two millennia have passed since the gospel texts were written. JH Hatfield’s ‘Why Call Me God?’ argues that throughout most of that period their true message has been completely misunderstood.

“We have published this book to share Hatfield’s scholarship and revelatory findings with the world. And we expect it to cause a quite a stir because it challenges the very core of Christian belief.

“Dan Brown has entertained us with his ‘Da Vinci Code’. But what Hatfield has done is to fathom a deeper and far more important secret - the secret concealed in the gospels themselves.”

Enquiries:

PR Director
Capabel Press Ltd
Tel: 07866 805 108

www.capabelpress.com

Managing Director
Capabel Press Ltd
Tel: 0845 680 9815

Notes to Editors

JH Hatfield’s ‘Why Call Me God: The Gospel Seen with a Single Eye’ is published in paperback by Capabel Press (£18.95): ISBN 978-0-9562057-0-4.

It will be available from 1st September through Amazon, The Book Depository, through independent booksellers, and from certain branches of Waterstones and Blackwell.

About the Author

J H Hatfield is the first writer to have his work published by Capabel Press. A former scholar of St John's College, Cambridge, he may be considered a polymath.

Over the years he has developed from a classicist, mathematician and historian into a scientist... then into a professional engineer... and then, in his senior years, into a serious student of Greek scripture. He has devoted several years to analysing the riddles in Greek scripture and developing the arguments now set out in ‘Why Call Me God?’